Clemson University, University of Alabama National Wildlife Refuge Assoc. Mascots

The National Wildlife Refuge Association (the Refuge Association) works to protect America's wildlife heritage by bringing a unique perspective and creative strategies to conservation. Refuge Association has created a powerful recipe for success by leveraging the world's largest wildlife conservation program—the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's 150-million acre National Wildlife Refuge System—and engaging other conservation nonprofits, private land owners and refuge Friends groups in safeguarding wildlife. By mobilizing citizens in support of conservation, generating support for wildlife conservation among decision makers, and creating mosaics of public and private protected lands, the Refug.....
